To promote research, education and training in IPR laws, the Gujarat Council of Science and Technology (GUJCOST) has established IPR chair (Intellectual Property Rights) at Gujarat National Law University (GNLU). The activities associated with spreading awareness about the basics of IPR law will be initiated in the coming month. Akanksha Jumde, Research Associate, GNLU-GUJCOST IPR, said that the aim of this chair is to conduct different types of research activities in the branch of IPR laws.

"Organising seminars, conferences, lectures on IPR laws by renowned experts from the industry is also on the pipeline. Also we will be adding more books to the GNLU library on IPR laws," she said.

She further added that the chair will be helpful to both the graduate and post graduate students as they will be updated about various internship and placement opportunities at various law firms with IPR practice. GNLU will also be conducting quiz competitions for secondary and higher secondary students on the basics of IPR laws.
